Auditing in a Pandemic

MNSA's response to COVID-19

This financial year has been a year of overcoming challenges, adapting to change and being versatile at a time when the world has been constantly affected by the impact of the pandemic, Covid-19.

Almost all of our auditing processes and procedures has had to be reviewed this year, given the unique circumstances companies and auditors found themselves in. What began as a “temporary plan” to address government restrictions, soon became a permanent shift in mindset, culture and work environment that allowed the firm to balance the needs of our auditors to ensuring our current and potential clients felt supported and safe in this new environment. Firstly, there were the physical or logistical challenges facing the audit team and secondly the questions on how to approach the audit judgements in an environment of such inherent business uncertainty.

Remote Working

Face to face interaction with our clients has been a vital part of the audit process in previous years, whether it was to complete controls testing, walk-throughs, have meetings or observe management in their own environments. Remote working effected the audit process from the beginning, and what was usually a face to face proposal has become a video call proposal with an increase of email communication. This year the lack of physical interaction has been challenging, especially for our interstate and international clients. Lockdowns have increased the need for regular and effective communication with our clients.

MNSA overcame these obstacles through the use of extensive communication between the audit team and with the client, and secondly with the use of technology. The team engaged in regular calls and video calls with the leadership team who reinforced the importance of keeping in regular contact with team members to monitor their wellbeing, work load and audit progress. Technology was a vital tool whilst working remotely as it allowed the team to engage collaboratively with one another, direct and supervise work through the use of video calls, webinars, shared worksheets and auditing software. Increased lockdowns that vary depending on geographic locations are an on-going challenge that is under constant review.

MNSA continues to utilise our alliances with interstate and international firms to support the physical and face to face aspects of the audit process such as completing stock takes and reviewing hard copy documents. All other components of the audit process are able to be completed through the use of technology whether it was through video calls, phone calls, audit software, emails etc.

The pandemic's impact on our clients

COVID-19 has had significant impact on our auditing procedures from a logistical point of view as well as considerations on the impact to our clients.

Carrying value of intangible assets and impairment testing required additional audit procedures from our team to provide assurance that all impacts to the business have been considered. In some circumstances clients forecasts in relation to going concern have deteriorated resulting in an increased risk in some areas. As a result MNSA has increased testing on management assumptions in relation to both impairment testing and going concern.

MNSA's approach to the audit has been modified due to the circumstances at the time. For a period most meetings have been held via online platforms along with an increased use of file sharing platforms. Where possible and appropriate, some face-to-face meetings have occurred.

Conclusion

2021 has been a memorable and challenging year that has effected almost all businesses that are audited. MNSA has risen to the challenge with a versatile and supportive approach to both our team and clients for the 2020 – 2021 audit season.

Acceptance and Continuance of Client Relationships and Specific Engagements

MNSA acknowledges that client integrity and the ability of MNSA to conduct the engagement competently and ethically are essential components of MNSA's quality control system.

MNSA and its directors and staff shall accept new engagements and client relationships only after the Managing Director, based on a review process conducted by the (prospective) engagement team, has approved acceptance of the engagement, in accordance with MNSA's policies and procedures.

MNSA uses established procedures to provide it with reasonable assurance that it identifies and assesses the potential sources of risk associated with a new client relationship or a specific engagement.

MNSA will only tender for or accept new clients after completing the appropriate documentation, including sending an ethical letter to the previous accountant, and assessing the acceptability of the client. The factors MNSA will consider include:

- The actual and/or perceived integrity of the client
- The cultural fit of the client within MNSA's practice areas
- The competence and capability of MNSA to complete the engagement within the required timeframe
- Ethical issues, with reference to any perceived independence and conflict of interest threats.

Accordingly, all directors accept the ultimate responsibility for the quality of the work performed by staff to be able to issue reports that are appropriate in the circumstances. Management of, and communication with, staff members is one of the major roles of directors.

On an ongoing basis, MNSA monitors their needs to ensure that the level of staff enables them to maintain current client levels and anticipated growth, turnover of personnel and retirements. The Managing Director, Practice Manager and Human Resources Manager are allocated responsibility for all human resource issues. They have the responsibility for:

- Maintenance of human resource policies
- Identifying required policy changes resulting from labour laws and regulations, and to remain competitive in the marketplace

Modern Slavery

The Commonwealth Modern Slavery Act (2018) requires entities operating within Australia with a minimum turnover of $100m to submit a 'Modern Slavery Statement' to the Department of Home Affairs. MNSA's revenue is below $100 million and therefore MNSA is not required to have an Annual Modern Slavery Statement under the Modern Slavery Act 2018. However MNSA has a Modern Slavery Policy, and this policy ensures MNSA's commitment to sourcing and investing in ethical supplies and minimising the risk of modern slavery and human trafficking in our supply chain.

MNSA notes that it does not outsource any work for any engagement. All procedures are completed by MNSA employees, all of who are based in Australia. MNSA does not intend to outsource work to overseas providers.

Engagement Performance

Through established policies and procedures and its quality control system, MNSA requires that engagements be performed according to professional standards and applicable regulatory and legal requirements.

MNSA's overall systems are designed to provide reasonable assurance that MNSA, its directors and staff adequately and properly plan, supervise, and review engagements and produce engagement reports that are appropriate in the circumstances.

To ensure directors and staff performance on engagements is consistent and according to professional standards and regulatory and legal requirements, MNSA has sample working paper templates for documenting the engagement process for clients. These templates are updated as required to reflect any changes in professional standards. Directors and staff use these templates to document key facts, risks, and assessments related to acceptance or continuation of each engagement.

Directors and staff are encouraged to exercise professional judgement when modifying such templates to ensure that such matters are appropriately documented and assessed for each engagement in accordance with professional standards and MNSA's policies.

Also available are research tools and reference materials; appropriate industry-standard software and hardware tools, including data and system access security; and guidance, training, and education policies and programs, including support for compliance with the professional development requirements of CAANZ. CaseWare audit software is used for all major audit engagements.

When performing any engagement, all directors and staff are required to:

- Ensure that all working papers, file documents and memoranda are initialled, properly cross-referenced and dated, with appropriate consultation on difficult or contentious matters
- Ensure that appropriate client communications, representations, reviews, and responsibilities are clearly established and documented
- Ensure that the engagement report reflects the work performed and its intended purpose and is issued soon after the fieldwork is complete.

Engagement Quality Review Process

Monitoring consists primarily of understanding the quality control system and determining through interviews, walk-through tests, and file inspections whether, and to what extent, this control system is operating effectively. It also includes developing recommendations to improve the system, especially if weaknesses are detected or if professional standards and practices have changed. The overall objective of the monitoring process is to help improve the quality of engagements.

MNSA relies on every Director and staff at all levels to informally monitor and enforce quality, ethics, and professional and MNSA standards. This monitoring shall be inherent in every aspect of professional work. Directors and staff who are in a position to make decisions or oversee the work of others have a greater level of responsibility.

MNSA implements any feedback received from routine audit inspections by ASIC and CAANZ's practice inspection program.

Quality reviews in relation to public interest audit engagements is conducted by an independent Audit Manager/Registered Company Auditor. All Directors and staff must co-operate with the Reviewer, recognising that their work is an essential part of the quality control system. Support of the Directors and staff of the process and to reinforce the Reviewers comments and findings is of critical importance.

Effectiveness of Internal Quality Control System

The Directors consider the appropriateness and effectiveness of the internal quality control policies and procedures in place based on information provided to it including the findings from quality monitoring reviews and external reviews. As MNSA has a commitment to continuous improvement, in any one year, some albeit relatively minor, changes in procedures are inevitable but in the current year none of the findings from reviews have required any major change in procedures.

The Directors confirm that, whilst recognising that no system can provide an absolute guarantee, the Directors are satisfied with the operation and effectiveness of its internal control system.

External Monitoring

MNSA is subject to a program of scheduled internal and external monitoring of audit quality and independence compliance. ASIC conducted its last inspection in 2020 - 2021. ASIC's observations from its review are welcomed and the observations made, add to MNSA's continuous audit quality improvement process and are being applied for on our audits.

CAANZ was scheduled to conduct an inspection in 2019/2020, however this has been delayed until the ASIC inspection is complete.

Regular external monitoring of audit quality is required by legislation and professional requirements. Other than as described in this Transparency Report, users of this Report should not make any assumptions about the scope of, or findings from, any external inspections.

We also support any employee who wishes to undertake any course of study that will provide them with knowledge and experience that will benefit them and MNSA.

In addition, we support the completion of part-time studies by staff members for a degree, post-graduate degree course or MBA etc, by allowing flexibility in work hours to accommodate lecture times, study, exams, and by way of assistance with fees. However, this is reviewed on a case by case basis.

We also similarly encourage the attainment of higher qualifications or course participation for all other Staff members - be it an IT course, advanced courses in Word, receptionist skills, etc, and will actively support their endeavours as we do those of our accountants.

Structured In-house Training

This policy encapsulates technical training, management training, independence training and mentoring for all professional and administration staff.

Technical training is a mixture of Webinar and in-house sessions delivered by Directors, and senior staff and, sessions delivered by external presenters such as the Technical Advisor and CAANZ.

Management business skills training will consist primarily of external courses.

Independence updates are provided for Directors and staff.

Unstructured Training

As part of MNSA's commitment to staff development, we offer training to help staff achieve professional and personal growth and greater job satisfaction. MNSA provides unstructured training to staff through several different avenues:

- periodic peer group meetings take place that contain an element of training
- coaching and on-the-job training occurs while gaining experience from completing work
- practical issues identified while completing assignments are incorporated into on-the-job training.

External Courses and Seminars

As part of our performance appraisal process, we evaluate the training and development needs of all Directors and staff and encourage professional and administration staff to attend approved external courses if their training and development needs are not addressed in our in-house training courses. The training focus for professionals will, of course, be different from administration staff.
